

My project will be similar to a Super Mario type game. The player controls a hero character with the keyboard. The hero progresses throughout the level. The background image moves with the hero throughout the level (like Super Mario). Throughout the level, there will be villains to avoid/defeat and keys to collect. The keys will unlock new levels and hero characters. I am also hoping to create a boss level and a secret level in the game.

